

Religion 131

Buddhism

Prof. Timothy Lubin
Washington and Lee University
Winter 2013
208 Baker Hall

This course introduces the religion oriented around the Buddha and his teachings, following its origin and development in India, its transmission to Sri Lanka and Southeast Asia, across the Himalayas to Tibet, and along the Silk Road to China, Korea, and Japan. We explore the biography of the Buddha, the spiritual teachings attributed to him, the life of monks and nuns (both meditation and devotion), the veneration of saintly ascetics and mystics, Buddhist philosophy, and the practices of lay Buddhists today. The class will visit the Bodhi Path Buddhist meditation center and stūpa (a devotional shrine to the Buddha), and the W&L Japanese Tea Room.

Course Requirements:

1. Attendance at all class meetings and careful completion of readings;
2. Participation in class discussion (cumulatively, 20% of grade);
3. Two 5–6 page essays, due February 8 and April 5 (each, 20% of grade);
4. A 90-minute midterm exam given in class (February 14) (20% of grade);
5. A 90-minute final exam (20% of grade).
